

David Rosenthal

March 28, 2017

To Whom It May Concern,

It is a complete honor for me and my husband, Dinesh Rao, to write this letter on behalf of David Rosenthal. In my 23-year career in motivational industries, as an instructor for Dale Carnegie, SMI, and a BWW speaker, I have listened to many talks at Dale Carnegie's and other business leadership meetings.

David's recent talk at the Realty Investment Association Of California (RIAOC) was exceptional for its original content and motivational message. For the beginner to the seasoned real estate professional, David's understanding and unique approach to commercial real estate development and brokerage is both timely and incredibly effective.

My husband and I feel privileged to consider David a friend. In the brief time that we got to know him, we look at David as one of the biggest influencers in our life!

We wish David the very best--he has earned our highest recommendation. Please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Chandra Rao
